

DU / LPA Technical Provider Selection Guide

Last Updated: June 2026 Version 1.0

Overview

When reissuing credit through Desktop Underwriter (DU) or Loan Product Advisor (LPA), the correct technical provider must be selected so the credit file can be accessed and reissued properly.

The provider selection may differ depending on whether you are working in DU or LPA.

Loan Product Advisor (LPA)

When working in Loan Product Advisor (LPA), select INFORMATION SEARCHING COMPANY as the technical provider and use the ISC login credentials assigned to your account.

Note: Loan Product Advisor was formerly known as Loan Prospector / LP. The current system name is Loan Product Advisor / LPA

Important Login Must Match Account Setup

The login credentials used must match the correct user and account configuration. If the login does not match the correct setup, the credit file may not be found and the reissue may not process correctly.

Branch ID and Account Number fields should be left blank unless otherwise instructed by ISC Credit.

Reissue Number Requirements

When reissuing through LPA, the number required depends on the type of account:

- Lenders — A Seller Service Number is required to reissue.
- Brokers — A TPO# (Third Party Originator number) is required to reissue.

Desktop Underwriter (DU)

When working in Desktop Underwriter (DU), you may select either of the following technical providers:

If Selecting ISC Credit

Use the ISC login credentials assigned to your account. Branch ID and Account Number fields should be left blank.

If Selecting MeridianLink

Log in using your MeridianLink username with the BW- prefix included before the username (for example: BW-username). Branch ID and Account Number fields should be left blank.

■ Pre-Reissue Checklist — Confirm Before Reissuing

- Correct technical provider is selected
- Correct username is being used
- Username matches the account setup
- For MeridianLink DU access: username includes the BW- prefix
- Borrower and file information match the original credit report
