What needs your attention this month.

- Waiting for a score: 7 files from August. All are listed in the pipeline below. 3 older files open more than 60 days are not listed.
- Repeat pulls worth a question: 3, $352.50. 3 more were explained by the file.
- Paid pulls with no middle score: 7, $440.60.
- Who paid: the company was billed $1,956.90. Loan officers and borrowers paid $4,305.47 by card or SmartPay at the time of order.

By branch

Each order and each charge is placed in the branch of the user who placed it, as set on the ISC account. Charges include every service billed to that branch this month. Median score is shown where a branch has five or more scored orders, and cost per order where it has three or more orders.

Branch	Orders	Charges	Cost / Order	Median Score	No Score	Worth a Second Look	Waiting for a Score

IN THIS REPORT

This summary covers the whole company. Billing detail for the whole company closes this summary. Each branch follows with its own detail: orders, spend, repeat pulls and the files still waiting for a bureau score, listed by borrower, so a branch's pages can be handed to its manager on their own.

Appendix: Billing detail

For whoever reconciles the ISC invoice; an owner can skip this section. The ISC invoice is the statement of record for what is due; this section explains how the month's charges line up with the files.

DOES THE INVOICE MATCH THE WORK

One question, answered in four lines. Everything ISC billed this month either sits on a file ordered this month, on a file ordered in an earlier month, or is a card processing fee billed to the account. Nothing else. If the reconciliation does not reach zero, the difference is flagged for review and traced to the underlying service activity.

	Amount
Total billed in the month	$6,262.37
On files ordered in the month	$5,907.47
On files ordered in an earlier month	$351.00
Card processing fees, billed to the account	$3.90
Difference	$0.00

THE WORK ON EARLIER FILES

What this is: charges this month on files that were first pulled in an earlier month. These are services added to an existing file after the original credit report, such as a supplement, rapid rescore, DU or LPA retrieval, or verification. They are billed in the month the work was done, which is why they appear on this month's invoice.

What It Was	Includes	Lines	Net Billed
Supplements	Supplement (15), Supplement, one of three free per file (8)	23	$195.00
Verifications	Income history (2)	2	$156.00
Reissues and DU/LPA retrieval	Fannie Mae DU retrieval (3)	3	$0.00

What It Was	Includes	Lines	Net Billed
Credit reports	Tri-merge soft pull (1)	1	$0.00
Total		29	$351.00

11 lines carried no charge, such as included supplements and DU or LPA retrievals; they are listed so every line on the invoice is accounted for.

Card processing fees: 1 line totalling $3.90, charged when a credit report is paid by card. They are billed to the account, not to a credit file, which is why they are listed on their own.

WHO PAID

	Files	Amount
Paid by card by the ordering user	31	$3,287.61
Paid by the borrower through SmartPay	11	$1,017.86
Billed to the company		$1,956.90
Total charged in the month		$6,262.37

Card payments are taken when the report is ordered. 5 card-paid files still left $140.00 on the company invoice, for services added after the card payment, such as a credit simulation or a spouse removed. The rest was settled at the time of order. The ISC invoice is the statement of record for what is due.

The next step is a conversation with the borrower, not another order: ask whether a security freeze is in place at the bureau shown. If it is, ISC can copy the file once it is lifted and charge only for the missing bureau.

Loan officer review

One row for each person files were billed to, sorted by orders, never ranked. These describe files and orders, not the performance of a person.

vs Company: each median compared with the company median of 718.

Waiting for a Score: a bureau returned no score and no bureau copy followed by month end, from the pipeline list (this month, plus earlier months open 60 days or less). A credit freeze is the most common cause; a bureau with no record or a thin file can also leave a score blank.

Worth a Question: the same borrower pulled again with nothing in the file to explain it, from the list below.

REPEAT PULLS WORTH A QUESTION

Worth a Question means the same borrower was pulled again and the file does not show why, such as a complete report pulled again weeks later, or a missing bureau answered with a full re-pull instead of a bureau copy. Re-pulls after a rapid rescore, a soft pull followed by the hard pull, or a co-applicant change are explained by the file and not listed.

Borrower	First File	Second File	Apart	Billed To	What the Files Show	Second Pull
Ashfield, Gideon	1612447	1612704	2 days later	Dorian Raghavan	First pull complete; pulled again by the same user	$117.50
Marshmore, Kasper	1612859	1612908	next day	Oswaldo Vanterpool	First pull missing EXP; a bureau copy may have cost less	$117.50
Thornley, Nico	1614300	1614459	next day	Theo Lindqvist	First pull complete; pulled again by the same user	$117.50
3 repeat pulls						$352.50

3 other repeat pulls were explained by the file and are not listed.

The clearest example this month: the same borrower's missing bureau was solved once with another full pull at $117.50, and once with a bureau copy at $16.00. Same problem, two paths, $101.50 apart.

METHODOLOGY

Sources. This account's own credit order and billing records held by ISC Credit for August 1 - 31, 2026.

Counting. 75 credit files were opened. 2 are frozen bureau copies, 17 are split or edited copies and 0 are refreshes, leaving 56 borrower orders.

Middle score. Used only where all three bureaus returned a score. ISC does not adjust, estimate or fill in a score.

Worth a second look. Repeat pulls worth a question plus paid pulls with no middle score, each file counted once.

Cost per order. Everything billed to a user, including supplements and copies, divided by their borrower orders.

Days open. From the order date to the last day of August. Files from earlier months stay listed while open 60 days or less.

Branch. The branch set for the ordering user on the ISC account.

Illustrative sample. Company name, branch names, user names and borrower names are invented and the figures are representative. This is not a real client account.

Prepared by ISC Credit exclusively for this account. The layout, measures and analysis in this report are proprietary to Information Searching Company and are provided for this client's internal use. Not for redistribution.

Net Billed Activity is Charge minus Credit from the ISC Activity Summary. It is a usage and monetary activity measure, not ISC gross profit and not the client's revenue. $26.00 in credits was applied this month and is already netted out of every figure here, so these totals sit below the gross charges on the invoice by that amount.

This report does not determine mortgage eligibility, approval likelihood, credit improvement potential, or whether a borrower is being actively worked. Where figures are shown by user they describe files and orders, not the performance of a person.
